» On January 12, 2018 the Window Covering Manufacturers Association announced the approval of a New Window Covering Safety Standard. The new standard ANSI/WCMA A100.1-2018 will require that ready-made window coverings manufactured after Dec 15, 2018 be cordless.

» Compliance with this standard is required and may be enforced by the US Consumer Product Safety Commission.

» The Consumer Product Safety Commission (CPSC) is urging the education of housing managers on the importance of installing only the window covering products that meet the new standards for stock products. Occupants of these housing units are unknown and can often include children and infants.

» Lotus & Windoware, Inc has the largest selection of stock, cordless blinds Available Now, putting you in the perfect position to lead your industry in all things safety!
